DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The corrected or substitute drawings were received on February 14, 2001. These drawings are not acceptable for the reasons set forth in paragraph 2.
2. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they do not include the following reference sign(s) mentioned in the description: Regarding figure 6, the specification makes reference to an analog multiplexer using reference character "164". However, this reference character is not present in the drawings. A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

3. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because the title "Method and Apparatus for Adaptive Hybrid Termination in a Multi-Carrier Communication System" should be removed. The abstract should contain only a heading such as "Abstract" or "Abstract of the Disclosure" and no other titles. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1, 8, 10, and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Moschytz et al ("Moschytz").
6. Regarding claim 1, Moschytz discloses an xDSL system comprising a hybrid circuit for interfacing the transmission line to the transmitter and receiver (see generally column 3, lines 30-40). The hybrid has an adjustable impedance component (see generally column 3, lines 58-64).
7. Regarding claim 8, Moschytz further discloses switching a resistance or capacitance for impedance matching (see generally column 4, lines 15-20).
8. Regarding claims 10 and 11, Moschytz discloses a method of operating a DSL modem comprising measuring the transhybrid power loss and adjusting the impedance based on this measurement (see generally column 5, lines 20-56).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

9. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

10. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moschytz et al ("Moschytz") in view of Hernandez-Marti ("Hernandez"). Moschytz discloses all of the elements as described above in reference to claim 1, but does not specify the use of two transformers. However, the use of transformers in hybrid circuits is well known in the art. Hernandez discloses that it is well known in hybrid circuits to have one transformer connected to a transmitter and the other to a receiver (see generally column 2, lines 13-23). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the invention of Moschytz for use with hybrid circuits having two transformers, as taught by Hernandez, in order to improve impedance characteristics.

Claim Objections

11. Claims 2-4, 6, 7, 9, 12, and 13 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim. The prior art of record does not disclose the use of a multiplexer for connecting a transformer to a discrete component in the hybrid circuit, the use of specific linear devices, or the use of a certain range of impedance values.
